

The Cash Flow Exchange

cflox is the global market for cash flow, trade finance, and Working Capital within the supply chain. On cflow, buyers and suppliers collaborate to optimize the financing of goods and services – digital, lean, and secure.

Admin/DevOps (m/f/d)

As an Admin / DevOps Engineer, you will help us to refine our market-based platform and to improve and further automate internal processes in close collaboration with the development team. You are also responsible to set up new servers and improve the monitoring of our systems. As third level support to our enterprise customers, you are tasked with assisting them in setting up their systems and resolving their issues.

cflox is an internationally certified payment institute that enhances corporate payments with working-capital optimization, financing, and lean processing. We develop technology-driven, unique solutions for our customers that provide instant added value. Our clients include large, international corporations from various industries, which we support with our diverse and growing team in Hamburg and Madrid. We offer challenging and interesting work with a high degree of responsibility.

Your responsibilities

- Keep our systems up and running, secure and fast
- Improve our internal systems (CI, ALM, etc.) to streamline our processes
- Maintain and develop new interfaces to customers
- Extend and further automate the monitoring of our systems
- Be the third level of support

Your skills

- A strong, battle-tested background in Linux/Unix administration
- Experience with automation/configuration management (Ansible, Puppet, etc.), CI solutions, containerization, and test automation (Gitlab CI, Jenkins)
- Experience with the administration of web applications – ideally in a Java and MySQL production environment
- You can communicate complex technical problems to non-technical people

Extra credit for

- Coding skills (!)
- Experience working in a regulated environment
- Experience working with interfaces to banks
- A degree in Computer Science or a related field
- Fluency in German
- Knowledge of financial markets, auctions, and corporate finance

What we offer

- A permanent contract, an attractive salary, and flexible working hours
- HVV ticket
- Agile collaboration, great colleagues, and a number of virtual and in-person team events to get to know them

To find out more about us, visit cflox.com. We are looking forward to your application! There is no form, just email it to recruiting@cflox.com!